

Butz hopes talk of Soviet grain purchase is true

By The Associated Press
Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says he is in favor of a reported new U.S.-Soviet grain deal.

"I hope it's true, because we're going to have the grain to sell," Butz told newsmen Tuesday in Harrisburg, Pa., where he met with state agriculture officials.

Reports of a grain deal between the Soviet Union and the United States surfaced Monday in two London newspapers.

The reports caused prices for wheat, soybeans and corn to hit their daily permissible limits on the Chicago Board of Trade where dealers buy and sell contracts for future delivery.

Although a similar grain deal three years ago turned into a controversy after wheat shortages developed, Butz defended the sale.

The 1972 sale also caused a major flap stemming from allegations that middlemen involved in the deal reaped whirlwind financial benefits.

Butz said such deals are a big help to the U.S. balance of trade. Butz also noted that the United States is expected to produce a record two billion bushels of wheat and six billion bushels of corn this year.

In Washington, the Department of Agriculture said it had heard, but could not confirm rumors of a new grain deal.

Richard E. Bell, the deputy assistant secretary of agriculture, said USDA experts were working on a new analysis and that an updated Soviet harvest estimate is expected in a day or two.

Bell said there was a possibility that the 1975 Soviet grain output might drop below last year's harvest of 195.6 million metric tons. But he added that he did not believe it would drop as low as it did in 1972 when the harvest was 168.2 million metric tons.

Bell reported that if U.S. crops are as large as expected this year, it would be "no real problem" to provide Russia with as much as five million metric tons of corn and wheat.

In another development, Senate investigators in Washington continued their probe into alleged corruption in the grain export industry.

A group representing grain inspectors said that the lack of federal supervision of the inspectors was responsible for problems in the grain export business.

But Virgil A. McNamee, a director of the National Association of Chief Grain Inspectors, told a joint hearing held by two Senate Agriculture subcommittees that making inspectors federal employees is "something we are convinced is not needed."

He added, however, that if increased federal supervision of grain inspection had been available, abuses in the program reported at several major export centers would not have occurred.

Under the current system, the federal government supervises the inspection but does not actually inspect the grain.

Says Ford hope to separate roles as President and as campaigner

WASHINGTON (AP) — The manager of President Ford's 1976 election campaign said today an effort will be made to draw a line between the President's political and governmental functions but conceded, "being the best President is the best politics."

At an informal news conference in the offices of the President Ford Committee, former Secretary of the Army Howard H. "Bo" Callaway said guidelines are being drawn up to determine which of Ford's travel bills should be paid by the government, the Republican National Committee or the campaign committee.

Callaway said a decision won't be made until later this year on such things as which primaries Ford will enter and whether his campaign will accept any of the $5 million in federal matching funds that the new campaign finance law makes available to candidates seeking the Republican and Democratic nominations.

"It's a decision that doesn't have to be made until Jan. 1, so why make it now?" Callaway asked.

In reply to questions, Callaway repeatedly stressed that his operation has nothing to do with nominating or electing Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, whose efforts Callaway described as "a separate campaign."

However, he said he stands behind Ford's position, which is that the President would recommend Rockefeller to the GOP convention, but that Ford expects the delegates to decide who they want for their vice presidential candidate.

Asked how he would counter Democratic efforts to link Ford with former President Richard M. Nixon, Callaway said, "If anyone runs against Nixon-Ford and thinks they're going to taint Ford by that, it won't wash."

"I have no knowledge of any role" to be played by Nixon in the 1976 Ford campaign, Callaway said, adding that he has "no intention" to ask the former president to play a role.

Although he pledged to be open about most details of the Ford campaign, Callaway said that wouldn't necessarily include full details about the $10 million the campaign intends to spend between now and the 1976 Republican convention.

"I'm not going to let Ronald Reagan know what our plans are," Callaway said, referring to the former California governor who is considering a challenge to Ford for the GOP nomination.

Callaway said he didn't know if Reagan would run but predicted, "We will win the nomination and we will win the election."

"At the moment," he said, the American people "are thrilled with the leadership" of President Ford, adding that if Ford can maintain that leadership, "he is going to be re-elected."

Callaway said he plans to keep the Ford headquarters as small as possible, estimating that the number of employees will grow from eight later this month to about 32 in Washington next year — about 10 percent of the staff at the 1972 committee for former President Richard M. Nixon.

Callaway said the $10 million spending limit imposed since 1972 is one of his biggest problems, adding "we have to do everything they did" in 1972 on a far smaller budget.

Asked if he meant "everything," Callaway laughed and said, "I'm glad you brought that up."

He said the committee would stay strictly within the campaign laws, noting "the penalty for deficit spending is two years in jail and I've made a commitment not to go."

Callaway said he is committed to work for Ford through the 1976 election, adding that the status of the committee if Ford is nominated is one of a number of legal questions yet to be resolved.

Callaway said he will report to the White House through the office of presidential assistant Donald Rumsfeld but that basically "there is only one man I report to and that is the President."

An informed source said the President's campaign managers hope to spend the full $10 million permitted by law in the nomination drive.

Charged with arson in fire fatal to 8

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — An unemployed loner who had been through Portland's alcohol detoxification program 22 times has been charged with arson and eight counts of murder in connection with a fire in an 80-cents-a-night hotel.

John Joseph Newvine, 61, a resident of the seamy district near the Burnside Bridge for about 20 years, was arrested early Tuesday about an hour after fire swept through the three-story Pomona Hotel. Eight men died and 26, including three firemen, were injured.

Newvine was to be arraigned in Multnomah County District Court today.

Police said the attendant of a service station near the hotel identified Newvine as the man who had bought 50 cents worth of gasoline a short time earlier.

Fire investigators say the four-alarm fire apparently started when gasoline was sloshed and ignited on a second floor landing of the hotel.

At Portland's David Hooper Alcohol Recovery Center, where he had been discharged Monday for the 22nd time, attendants described Newvine as a quiet man who took his treatments and slept well.

Newvine, 61, lived in a $36-a-month room at the Home Hotel, not far from the Pomona. Hotel manager Bud Harvey described him as an outcast with few friends.

Meanwhile, medical examiners were trying to complete identification of the eight men who died.

Four were identified as Narcisse Bierle, 57; Virgil Howard, 47; Jim Jimenez, 57, and Claude Maple, 69, all hotel residents.

Tentative compromise on arms aid to Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, following a meeting with House leaders, announced today a tentative compromise that, if cleared by Congress, would permit renewed military aid shipments to Turkey.

At an impromptu news conference in the White House driveway after a 90-minute breakfast session with the House leaders, Ford also expressed hope that the compromise would lead to a solution of the Greek-Turkish dispute over Cyprus and encourage Turkey to remain a full partner in the Western defense alliance.

As Ford and Chairman Thomas Morgan of the House International Affairs Committee described them, these were principal elements of the proposed compromise to end a ban on aid shipments to Turkey:

—$70 million of military goods already bought and paid for by Turkey would be released to that country immediately.

—In addition, Turkey would be free to buy for cash any additional U.S.-produced military hardware it wants.

—The President would be required to report to Congress every 60 days on any arms sales to Turkey and on progress toward a Cyprus settlement.

Congress voted to end all U.S. arms shipments to Turkey this February following use by that country of American-supplied arms in its invasion of Cyprus.

The Senate recently lifted the ban but there has been no similar action in the House. Morgan, a Pennsylvania Democrat, told reporters the aim would be to amend the Senate legislation in his committee to reflect the compromise.

Morgan said he hoped the International Affairs Committee could complete work on specific legislation by early next week and promptly seek a rule permitting a floor vote on it.

Turkey, stunned by the arms ban, set a July 17 deadline for resumption of shipments, declaring otherwise that it would require renegotiation of agreements under which U.S. military bases are maintained in that country.

Turkish aid was cut off under a law that banned recipients of American military assistance from using it except for defensive purposes. That requirement would be part of the compromise legislation as well.

Morgan said hearings on the compromise would begin Thursday before his committee. He said he hoped the panel would mark up a bill Friday or early next week.

Ashland denies secret CIA money was for politics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ashland Oil Inc. denies that the nearly $99,000 it got secretly from the Central Intelligence Agency was for domestic political donations.

It was disclosed Tuesday that the Kentucky-based oil company got $98,988 from the CIA in five payments over 4½ years ending in March 1973. Ashland is the country's largest independent oil refiner.

Ashland also has admitted that during the same period it handed out more than $700,000 in illegal corporate donations to Richard M. Nixon, Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic party and to other candidates including some the company still refuses to name.

Meanwhile, columnist Jack Anderson said today that Ashland deposited $240,000 in a Swiss bank account for Prince Mishal Ibn Abdul-Aziz, one of the 38 half-brothers of Saudi Arabian King Khaled "to buy influence" with the royal family.

Mayors vote to drop defense budget criticism

BOSTON (AP) — A conference of the nation's big-city mayors voted narrowly today to eliminate their long-standing criticism of the defense budget from their lobbying policy.

By a vote of 91 to 86, the U.S. Conference of Mayors struck from its resolution on national priorities criticism of President Ford's proposed $107.7 billion defense budget.

The resolution had said that Ford's 18 per cent budget increase was more than enough to protect the Pentagon from inflation and that recession could be more effectively fought by increased urban spending.

The deletion was almost unanimously approved by Republican mayors who had offered a compromise Tuesday under which they would have supported the budget criticism if Democratic mayors would avoid calling for changes in the distribution formula for general revenue sharing.

White House lobbyists at the conference had circulated position papers arguing against the defense criticism on the grounds that defense outlays had sunk from 8.9 per cent to 5.6 per cent of the Gross National Product from 1969 to fiscal 1976.

The motion to delete the criticism was offered by Republican Mayor Richard Scott of Lancaster, Pa., who said, "We have no expertise in defense matters. We would stay in our own ballpark."

In a shouted defense of the criticism which he had drafted, Democratic Mayor Henry A. Maier of Milwaukee said, "Our programs are vetoed and we are told there isn't money for them. We have to come up with an answer about where the money is, and it's in the military."

"Our urban programs are cut and we are told they are inflationary," Maier added. "Nothing is more inflationary than the defense budget because you can't eat a gun and you can't live in a helicopter."

Republicans and mayors are determined to prevent big-city Democrats from putting the conference on record in favor of increasing the revenue sharing money given to poorer cities.

Resolution of that debate will determine what the conference, representing cities over 30,000 population, will lobby for in the next year.

It was expected that the big-city Democrats will fail to get full conference support for a resolution approved in committee demanding that need be a greater factor in distributing revenue sharing funds. There were four reasons for this:

—Republican mayors have offered to join in endorsing a $2-billion emergency antirecession aid bill, opposed by the Ford administration, if the Democrats agree to accept the current revenue sharing distribution formula in pressing for renewal of the program.

—The most influential advocate of the "greater need" factor, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, had already returned home before today's session began.

—Governors, county officials and Ford administration representatives have warned repeatedly that any effort to tinker with the formula could destroy the coalition that favors renewing the five-year program, which expires next year.

—The incoming president of the conference, Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans, and Vice President Kenneth A. Gibson of Newark, N.J., both have indicated they are willing to submerge their personal support for a "greater need" factor to the practical political considerations of getting the renewal approved by Congress this year.

The expiring $30.2-billion federal revenue-sharing program has been the first federal aid that states and cities could use however they wanted.

Police seek owner of $72,000 check

A $72,000 check, drawn on the United States Government, was found today in the parking lot east of the First Baptist Church, according to Dixon Police.

A police spokesman said the check has been placed in a safe at another location and will be released to the person who can properly identify that he or she is the one to whom the check belongs.

The payee of the check is asked to go to the police station to establish identity as the one to whom the check was issued.

New York City unions demanding rehiring of workers

By The Associated Press
New York City's debate over who should suffer most in the city's fiscal crunch is heating up. With city officials considering a package of nuisance taxes, municipal workers' unions say the city should fire non-civil service workers instead of police and firemen.

Meanwhile, progress was reported Tuesday toward settling a Pennsylvania state employees' strike. One official said that walkout could delay the mailing of many of the state's unemployment checks.

And a strike of 10,000 General Dynamics shipbuilders continued at a Groton, Conn. yard where nuclear submarines are built. Bargaining resumed but progress was reported only on minor issues.

In New York, municipal workers' union leader Victor Gotbaum said the city should fire 30 per cent of its so-called "provisional" and administrative employees so it could rehire laid-off civil servants in such departments as police, fire and sanitation.

"We are not requesting, we are insisting on an answer from the mayor by noon Monday," Gotbaum told a news conference. The Municipal Labor Committee, an umbrella group of municipal workers' unions which Gotbaum heads, says more than 40,000 provisional employees are on city payrolls. Their jobs are outside the normal civil service system.

Meanwhile, the city council took up the question of $76 million in so-called "nuisance taxes" requested by Mayor Abraham Beame. The package would include $41 million in new taxes on such items as shoeshines and haircuts — and a potentially unpopular tax on beer.

The Dixon Rural Fire Department was called to Smitty's Salvage yard today to extinguish a fire and car fire.

According to reports, a pile of tires with a car stacked on top of the tires had ignited. Soft muddy ground hindered extinguishing efforts, as a rural tanker got stuck and the first engine to arrive at the scene had to cut down on water while keeping the fire under control.

The cause of the fire is undetermined. Firefighters were on the scene for 45 minutes.

Learn from Romans

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

We Americans have officially started to celebrate our bicentennial of the founding of the United States: 200 years. But millions among us feel that historian Edward Gibbon in his monumental work might well have substituted the United States for Rome.

Rome's civilization, like ours, was a highly commercial civilization. Emperor Claudius Nero of fiddler fame was the true father of free trade. He abolished custom duties inside and outside the Empire. Learning from the Phoenicians at what is now Beirut, Lebanon, Roman traders launched carrier pigeons from "Pigeon Rock" (which you can see today) to wing their business messages throughout the Eastern Mediterranean.

Marcus Porcius Cato, born plebeian but later one of Rome's most honored citizens, shouted "Delenda est Carthago"—Carthage must be wiped out. The Third Punic War, ending in Carthage's destruction, included Rome's first major naval battle, perpetuated by the Columna Rostrata in Rome's Forum. This conquest added to Rome's commerce.

Rome away from Rome were built from Britain to the Bosphorus. The Romans built at Aswan, Egypt, high up the Nile, which became the Roman Empire's southernmost outpost; at Phoenicia's Byblos, which gave the Bible its name; at Sidon, where Solomon hewed his cedars; at Baalbek where their Temple of Jupiter was the largest in the entire Roman Empire, bigger than the Parthenon at Athens; at Lepis Magna where the amphitheater holds 40,000 people; at Treves (Trier, West Germany) where the Roman ruins are better preserved than in Rome itself; at Neims, France, where you can see a Roman aqueduct bigger than any in Italy.

The Romans away from Rome were tied together by more than 200,000 miles of life-bearing, commerce-bearing arteries of highway stone—a new idea in the world until the Romans thought of it and achieved it.

The barbarian invasions of Rome that began at the end of the fourth century were neither sudden nor singular. Hordes of barbarian Goths who fled the Huns who crossed the steppes from Mongolia had been in Rome for 200 years.

Barbarian mercenaries became the chief defenders of the Roman world, fighting with their own horses, weapons, tactics. Then when the Roman legions retreated from Treves in 406 A.D., the barbarian tides rolled across the provinces practically unopposed and the final blow on Rome itself fell.

In 428, cruel, redoubtable, Lame Gaiseric, 28, the most famous of all Vandals, became their king. The Vandals stayed in Rome a fortnight (June, 455), only long enough to take all the treasures the Visigoths left in 410.

The barbarians deposed Emperor Romulus Augustulus, the last Roman Emperor of the West, in 476. A Goth, Odoacer, became the first king. The king's gold crown, called the "Iron Crown" because it was said to contain one of the true nails of the Holy Cross (it probably belonged to Constantine) was kept in the Duomo of Monza, near Milan, and is still there.

The Roman era lasted 1,300 years.

Rome's civilization, like that of the United States, was born in good government. It rose against the despotic world, just as America rose against the religious and economic limitations of Europe.

The banner passed from tired Athens to Rome, for the early Roman Empire was a republic—"res publica," a public affair, the product of the Hellenic idea that imbued our own Founding Fathers.

The arm of Roman law reached long. Bit by bit, it also grew confiscatory. The Caesars expanded the tax gatherers who took the grain from fields, the flax from spindles, the pottery from market places to create a welfare state.

Its failures were such that in 285 A.D. the disgusted Roman Carausius, the far-off commander of the British fleet, proclaimed himself an independent Emperor of Britain.

The lesson for the United States, of course, is that our progress is not inevitable. Many great powers have collapsed because economic, military and social problems became so complex that the spirit and will of the people were no longer sufficient to cope with them.

This can cost us our place as the No. 1 power in the world—lest we forget, lest we forget.

Take it from Here

REFLECTIONS— After the shock of quadrupling of the price of oil by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) which brought threats to the supply of fossil fuel and saw steep increases in prices of these sources of energy, there came the fear the Arabs were going to buy us out with our own money.

Wild rumors abounded about Mid-East interests investments in various U.S. enterprises.

The revenues of OPEC rose about 300 per cent in 1974 to $94 billion and suddenly we realize "nobody can spend that much money and where might they put the surplus cash better than in the industrial companies in the West?"

To the American consumer, this seemed something like being robbed and then having the thief coming around to buy out the citizen with the money taken from him.

Well, the Arabs found they were human and experienced what all of us have from time to time.

Ever notice, when you get a raise in pay, somehow your spending goes up, too?

Our Mohammedan friends (?) found out the same thing. An estimated 30 per cent of the $70 billion increase in revenues went for higher spending by themselves.

This left about $56 billion free to be invested in 1974 which is a rather hefty portfolio, not exactly a small investor.

Of this amount, it has been reported, $20 billion was channeled into England, $10 billion into the U.S. and the remainder throughout other nations.

We are still paying through the nose for fuel, but here, as well as in other industrial nations, there has been a decrease in demand for OPEC oil.

As a consequence of this, estimates place the OPEC funds available for investment abroad as low as 30 per cent of that deposited in 1974.

A report from the Bank of England Quarterly covering the first quarter of this year estimates there was only about 50 per cent as much cash surplus available for foreign investment for the first three months of 1975 as in the last quarter of 1974.

The bank believes 30 per cent of the OPEC's cash surplus is being funneled into United Kingdom investments, compared to 50 per cent last year.

The quarterly notes England's share of Mid-East investment dropped to 29 per cent in the last quarter of 1974 and have remained constant through the first quarter of this year.

There has been a reported sharp drop in the percentage of OPEC cash surpluses flowing into U.S. investments this year. Last year about 25 per cent of Arab surplus cash found its way to the U.S. but this declined to 8 per cent for the first quarter of '75.

Some have suggested the decline of attraction in the U.S. investments by the Arab money managers is because interest rates here have dropped sharply since mid-1974.

Maybe this all means the Arabs will only buy us out if they think it will be a profitable transaction.

Nuclear threat revisited

By DON GRAFF

It is ironic that the Rosenberg case is being resurrected as a public issue at precisely the time that the nuclear threat is causing more world anxiety than it has in a decade or so.

The issue in the trial of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg was, of course, whether they had delivered the "secret" of the atomic bomb to the Soviet Union.

The problem today is that there is no "secret" to nuclear capability. It is there for the development, or purchase, by those nations which have the necessary industrial, intellectual and/or financial resources.

Considering all those doomsday warnings of unrestricted proliferation back in the '50s, it is amazing how long the nuclear monopoly of a small group of more or less cooperative governments has been maintained.

Signs have been multiplying, however, that the dam may be about to break. And the pressure is not, as once feared, coming from power politics, it's economic.

As practicality of nuclear power has increased in recent years, helped along lately by the political manipulation of world oil supplies, the export of nuclear technology has become an increasingly profitable business for those nations who got into the game early.

The trouble is that nuclear power technology can't really be separated from nuclear weapons capability, as demonstrated last year when India, with Canada's unwitting aid, became the sixth nation to explode a nuclear device.

If others choose to follow the Indian lead, the mushroom cloud could appear next in any of a number of countries busily importing nuclear know-how. A Brazilian-West German deal involving reactors and fuel processing facilities has drawn press attention and open U.S. disapproval. France is working on deals with Argentina, Pakistan and South Korea. The Soviets are selling Libya a reactor. Canada, once burned on its reactor delivery to India, is nonetheless out there hustling up new business with Taiwan and, again, Argentina, Pakistan and South Korea.

Control—internationally supervised safeguards to assure that nations acquiring nuclear facilities for peaceful purposes do not divert same to weapons manufacture—was supposed to be the answer back in 1968 when the treaty against proliferation was concluded. But a number of present and potential nuclear powers—notably France, China, India and Brazil—have never signed up. And the Vienna-based International Atomic Energy Agency, charged with overseeing safeguards, has all of 67 inspectors to keep tabs on a world.

The United States, whose viewpoint is that more is definitely not merrier, has reverted to semi-secret diplomacy with those few countries at the top of the nuclear heap in hopes of strengthening policing of burgeoning nuclear commerce. Thus a hush-hush June meeting in London of, principally, U.S., British, Soviet, French, West German and Canadian representatives.

Nothing has been revealed as to discussions or decisions, if any, but it was at least encouraging that formerly holdout France participated.

Meanwhile, back in Washington President Ford has been giving a striking demonstration of left hand, right hand noncommunication. With the United States committed to more stringent controls internationally, he is proposing to shift domestic responsibility for production and sales of the basic nuclear material, enriched uranium, from the government to private industry.

The reason is—you guessed it—economics. He would prefer that private capital rather than government funds underwrite the considerable expansion of production facilities necessary to keep up with the anticipated rise in U.S. export sales, from last year's $21 million to $5 billion during the next five years.

How ironic can a threat to existence get?

Private industry workers outnumbered

According to Ford Motor Company economists, the number of Americans being supported by taxes now exceeds the number of workers in private industry.

Adding government employees, the disabled, servicemen, the unemployed, those on welfare, and those on social security, the number being supported on taxes comes up to a total of 80.65 million. Workers in private industry total 71.65 million, which means that those of us who are working for a living in private industry are now a minority.

Voice of the people

Between three and four o'clock on June 22, I was working in my field spraying thistles. The weeds were high and I heard someone calling "come on boy, here boy," and looked up to see a red car standing on the roadside trying to coax my Doberman to his car.

The Doctor Says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am wondering if you would answer some questions about hormones. I know that you have talked about them, but I have some specific questions.

I take a hormone shot every three weeks. Each time a certain nurse gives me the shot, she tells me I am getting them too often, and I should wait 45 days between shots. I don't see the doctor for this, only go to the lab.

When it is time for me to have the shots, I get down in the "dumps," get headaches, and just feel terrible. On top of that, I get those awful, hot flashes. She told me last week (after the lecture) that it was all in my head. Should I see the doctor and have him recheck or what? I had a Pap smear by a doctor in a larger town close by the other day, and after checking me, he said I was in fine shape. It bothers me to think that maybe I am getting them too often, but what should I do? That doctor that put me on them three years ago has left town. I am 55, work every day, have a large family (all married) with some wonderful grandchildren.

DEAR READER — Ask to see the doctor. He will be interested in his nurse's comments to you and will be in a better position to tell you if you need hormones and if so, how much and how you should take them.

The Pap smear may have been done only for detection of tumor, but you can examine the cells with special stains and also get some information from the examination on how well a woman is in balance with her hormones. You may have been in "fine shape" because you are taking hormones. They help to protect the tissues and prevent changes seen after the menopause in some women.

How often a woman needs hormone replacement depends a lot on her own individual hormone make-up. Some women produce a reasonable amount of female hormone from the adrenal gland after the menopause and get along nicely. Others do not and need some help. The doctor can measure the output of female hormones also from a urine test. This will also determine how much and how often a woman needs hormones. There is no set rule such as never more often than every 45 days or any set amount. Each case is different.

Most women do not need to take shots to get the needed benefits. Several different preparations can be taken by mouth and are just as effective. Usually there is no reason to put yourself through the shot routine.

If your doctor thinks you need female hormones, he may be willing to put you on a pill that will do the same thing for you and may even provide a smoother, more regular hormone action. You could also avoid the nurse, her needle and the lecture this way.

DEAR DR. LAMB — How can one tell if a woman is pregnant without going to a doctor?

DEAR READER — You can wait nine months and the answer will become clear.

Seriously, it requires tests to be certain in the early stage of pregnancy.

Outdoor ceremony unites couple

AMBOY—The Green Wing Bible Camp near Amboy was the setting for an outdoor wedding which united Miss Barbara Hiatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hiatt Sr., and Jeffrey Lowe, son of the Robert Lowes, Amboy.

The Rev. Gerald Gulley, pastor of the Southern Illinois University Wesley Foundation, Carbondale, performed the double ring ceremony and was assisted by the Rev. Henry Holverson, pastor of the Amboy United Methodist Church. Miss Therese Elliott, Amboy, provided vocal selections for the ceremony while Keith Noble Jr. and Jerry Fitzpatrick, both of Amboy, played guitars for the nuptial selections.

The bridal path was laid through a pine grove lined with potted arrangements of mums, geraniums and springer.

Both the bride and the bridegroom were given in marriage by their parents.

For her wedding, the bride chose an A-line gown of white eyelet with a scalloped edge and chiffon flounce. The gown was styled with a boat neck, cut deeper in back, accented with a long chiffon collar and long, full sleeves gathered at the wrists. An opal necklace, a gift from the bridegroom, was worn by the bride and a lace headpiece held her four-layer shoulder-length illusion veil in place.

As the bride was escorted to the altar by the bridegroom, she carried a white lace fan accented with white, lavender and blue pompons, gypsophila and springer trimmed with lavender, blue and white streamers.

Mrs. Joseph Newton, Batavia, served the bride as matron of honor. Her gown was styled in lavender and blue floral sheer print and she wore a white picture hat. Mrs. Newton carried a white lace fan trimmed with lavender and blue pompons, gypsophila, springer and lavender and blue streamers.

Miss Linda Suppapat, Bangkok, Thailand, and Miss Sue Lowe, the bridegroom's sister, Amboy, also attended the bride. They were individually styled gowns of lavender and blue floral print of a sheer material. Each carried a white fan decorated with pompons, gypsophila, springer and streamers.

Randy Nusbaum, Dixon, served the bridegroom as best man and groomsmen were Bob Smith, Chicago, and Jeff McLindsay, Sublette. Ushers for the guests of the bridal couple were Curt July, Don Clayton, Bob Flessner, Jeff Hubbell and Bill Reinhold, all of Amboy.

Miss Birute Sakalas and Miss Heather Hiatt, the bride's nieces, were flower girls for the wedding couple and wore gowns individually styled in sheer blue and lavender floral print. Each little miss carried a white basket filled with lavender and blue pompons and trimmed with streamers.

Following the ceremony, a reception for the bridal couple was held at the Golden Oak Lodge, Green Wing Bible Camp. The three-tiered wedding cake served to the bridal party and guests was decorated with two white doves and lavender and blue pompons adorning the top. Assisting at the reception were Misses Laurie Pitzer, Chris Pitzer, Barb Brownlee, Nancy Brownlee, Kathy Hargitt and Laur Hargitt, all of Amboy.

A rehearsal dinner given by the bridegroom's parents was held at the Brown Shingle in Dixon. For the dinner, the bridal couple brought a cake in honor of the parents' wedding anniversaries.

Following a wedding trip to Wisconsin, the couple will reside at 45 N. Blackstone, Amboy.

The new Mrs. Lowe graduated in May, with honors, from the University of Illinois with a B.S. in accounting. She is a member of Beta Alpha Psi national scholastic accounting fraternity and is presently employed by the Ramada Inn, Dixon.

Mr. Lowe attended Southern Illinois University and is employed by Fosco Fabricators, Dixon.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY—Please tell me how to clean old-fashioned radiators and then how to paint them. I have tried using my sweeper attachments and a brush but that did not get all the dirt.—MRS. J. W.

DEAR MRS. J. W.—Perhaps you were not using your sweeper the right way. Use the blower attachment to blow the dust down onto a layer of newspapers. Dampen the top paper to catch the dust. Then the papers can be picked up with the dust on them or the suction attachment could be used to draw the dust into the vacuum bag. The radiator sections and in between the sections could be brushed with a radiator brush if one prefers. During winter when the heat is on such cleaning should be done at least every couple of weeks so dust does not accumulate and as a protection to walls and curtains.

Of course, a radiator is never painted when warm or the paint would blister. First use aluminum paint and then, if desired, paint to match other woodwork in the room. If they have been painted before or have already been coated with aluminum paint you needn't repeat this.—POLLY that force us to push a big cart up and down their narrow aisles when we may be buying only a few things. I do wish they had the same sort of baskets for us to carry as the variety stores have.—S. H.

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with supermarkets

DEAR POLLY—Garage sales are so popular now. I thought others who have them might benefit by my bookkeeping system, or lack of bookkeeping. Several of our neighbors put things in my sale. Each person's initials and the price were written on masking tape and attached to the proper items. When an article was sold I removed the tape and stuck it on the wall paneling where a certain place was assigned to each contributor. It was easy to pay the right amounts to everyone. The slips from their things were all together with the prices right on them. There was no real bookkeeping and things really went along smoothly.—LILLIAN

DEAR POLLY—As a water-saving trick each morning when everybody starts to wash I run the cold water into a pitcher or jar until the running water is warm. The cold water I have saved can be used a bit later for watering my house plants or filling the humidifier.—JUDY

Fruited Dessert Pilaf

- 3/4 pound California Thompson seedless grapes (about 2 cups)
 - 1 can (11 ounces) mandarin oranges, drained
 - 1/4 cup orange-flavored liqueur (optional), sweet dessert wine or orange juice
 - 1 cup rice
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1 cinnamon stick
 - Grated rind of 1/2 lemon
 - 3 cups milk
 - 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 - 1/4 cup cold water
 - 1 cup whipping cream
 - 1/4 cup sugar
- Grape clusters
- Rinse and drain grapes; remove stems. Combine with mandarin oranges and liqueur to marinate. Set aside. In heavy saucepan with tight-fitting lid, combine rice, salt, cinnamon stick, grated lemon rind and milk. Bring to boil slowly, stirring once or twice. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, over low heat, 25 minutes. Milk will have been absorbed. Discard cinnamon stick. Soften gelatin in cold water and stir into rice. Cool. Whip cream, adding sugar as it thickens. Fold fruits and marinade and whipped cream into cooled rice mixture. Turn into 2-quart mold, packing lightly. Chill several hours or overnight. Unmold on platter. Decorate with grape clusters. Serve cold. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Dear ANN: by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: We keep hearing lectures and reading articles for parents who need to know how to help their children get off drugs. I have a different kind of question. What can children do to help parents who become addicted? I am not speaking about pot or LSD or heroin. I'm referring to a nice, respectable middle-aged couple in the suburbs who are hooked on barbiturates and amphetamines.

My mother and dad have a medicine chest full of Seconal, Tuinal, Nembutal, barbitol, phenobarbital and Eskatrol. I'm sure they would be highly insulted if anyone suggested that they were drug addicts. When I told my mother amphetamines were "speed" she said, "Don't be silly."

My dad insists he can't get a night's sleep without pills. They both seem to think they are in no danger because the drugs are prescribed by our family doctor. What can I do to help them?—Concerned Son

Dear Son: Call your family doctor and ask him if he is aware that your parents are addicted. HE is the one who should handle this problem—and I hope he does, promptly.

Dear Ann Landers: I have read with interest several letters in your column from widows whose husbands had very little life insurance, or in some cases none at all. Some of those widows were bitter because their husbands had not "planned ahead." But in my case, I was the guilty party.

Every time our agent suggested that Mel increase his insurance, I came out with that stupid remark, "We're insurance poor." The truth was that I, like so many wives, thought my husband would live forever. Widowhood was something that happened to other women. Today, I'm that other woman.

Last week, while going through my husband's desk drawers I came across an insurance proposal for $40,000 of life insurance. It was dated five months before Mel died. It was a good plan and we could have afforded it. Our agent was trying to help and I knew it, but Mel was in perfect health and I figured I could use that $21.57 a month toward a new color TV.

Today, I'm working in a steak restaurant trying to keep my family together. Believe me, it's tough. I hope you will print this letter for the benefit of all those wives out there who don't appreciate life insurance as much as widows do. Sign me—Kicking Myself In Winston-Salem

Dear Friend: Twenty-twenty hindsight is easy. The family that looks ahead and makes provisions for the long shots is the one that sleeps better at night. I'm sorry your husband didn't override your veto. Good luck to you, dear.

Dear Ann Landers: Your column touches people's lives in ways that you will never know. You touched mine recently and I want to thank you. It was your answer to the person who asked if it was in poor taste to send a note of condolence to a woman whose husband had committed suicide.

You said, "By all means write to the bereaved widow at once. She needs to hear from family and friends at this critical time."

So often when a husband takes his life, the widow wonders if people think perhaps their marriage was bad—that if she had been a better wife she could have prevented the tragedy. Thank God my family and friends didn't think that way a year ago.—N.J. Widow

Dear Friend: I appreciate your confirmation. Only one who has been there knows what it's like.

 "What sort of free bid was that?" roared North. "Only 13 high-card points and there you were way up at the three level."
 "It turned out to be very costly," replied South. "We had a game, slam and rubber waiting for us and you had to bid seven and throw it all away."

"If you had just passed over East's two hearts, I would have bid three clubs and we would have reached the slam," continued North.

"Right," said South. "We also would have scored everything if you hadn't hung me for bidding three clubs."

The argument may still be going on so we will try to answer it for you, our readers.

If East had not stuck in his two-heart bid, South would merely have rebid to two clubs. When he did bid two hearts South was given a choice. He could pass and maybe never get to show his club suit, or he could bid at the three level.

This time the pass would have worked out better, because North overbid to an unsound seven. Year in and year out the bid will be the winning action.

Grange to meet

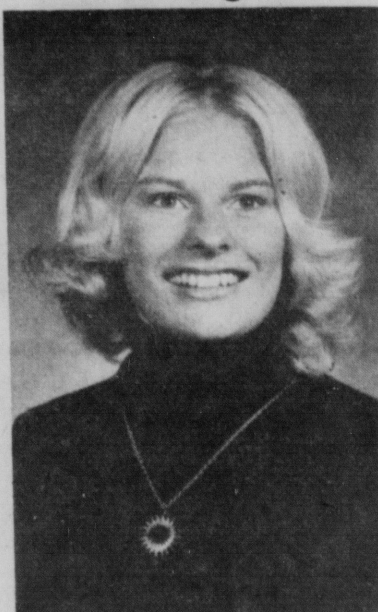

The Rock River Grange will have a business meeting at the Grange Hall tonight at 8 p.m.

More to a name than meets the ear

By JOANNE KOCH
 "I am going to be married this month," writes Robert Jaeger Jr. of Denver, Colo., "and though I am not insistent that my fiancée change her name to mine, I do like the idea of sharing a name because of what it symbolizes in family unity. Hence, I and my fiancée find ourselves in need of clear, unbiased advice and information concerning difficulties a woman may encounter in changing her name."

Fortunately for Mr. Jaeger and his fiancée, The Center for a Woman's Own Name can provide printed material and legal advice about the problems of retaining a maiden name, combining maiden name and husband's name, or changing a

Miss Dimmig bride-elect of Mr. Bright

MISS DOREEN DIMMIG

WALNUT— Mr. and Mrs. Duane Dimmig announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Doreen Lynn, to Richard Henry Bright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Bright, Rock Falls.

Miss Dimmig is a 1975 graduate of Walnut Community High School. Her fiancé is a 1974 graduate of Rock Falls High School. He is presently employed at Hank Bright Motor Sales, Rock Falls.

Plans are being made for an Aug. 22 wedding at the Walnut United Methodist Church.

band's name, or changing a maiden name to a husband's name.

Terry Tepper, founder of the center, was Mrs. Lawrence Weiner for eight years before she decided to change back to her maiden name. Her husband, an Illinois attorney, had no objections to being married to Terry Tepper rather than Terry Weiner. Terry found that her relationship with her husband actually improved after she changed back to her maiden name. Women who heard of her name change would tell Terry they wanted to do the same but didn't know how to accomplish this.

Terry set up the center in 1973 with partner and legal adviser Priscilla Macdougall of Madison, Wis. Incorporated in 1974 as a non-profit organization, the center now has a network of attorneys, housewives and others around the country who supply information about name change and related credit or legal problems. Terry reports that the center receives 50 letters a day. "One woman in her sixties who had been married for 30 years decided to change back to her maiden name. She claimed she never did feel comfortable with her husband's name."

Much of this interest in name change has resulted from the rude awakening experienced by the divorced or separated woman. A woman who had lived as Mrs. John Brown for 10 years and then divorced John Brown would find herself with no credit rating of her own, even though she had shared in paying the bills and mortgage.

The new Equal Credit Opportunity Act, which goes into effect in October, makes it "unlawful for any creditor to discriminate against any applicant on the basis of sex or marital status with respect to any credit transaction."

Under this law a woman would not have to reapply for credit when she marries, or be forced to use her husband's name on credit cards. In fact, the future Mrs. Jaeger would do well to use at least her own first name on credit cards so that she is establishing her individual record of credit worthiness.

Christine Kellman-Smith, a Denver contact person for the Woman's Own Name organization, combined her maiden name with her husband's. But computers and computerized bureaucrats often disregard the hyphen and simply list the name as Smith. Then there's my great-aunt who had her fiancé change his name to hers—an option which isn't exercised much, even in these days of women's liberation.

To find out more about what's in a name and a name change, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Center for a Woman's Own Name, 261 Kimberley, Barrington, Ill.

THE PATRIOTIC AMERICAN FARMER. J-N D-K-NS-N, Esq; BARRISTER at LAW

This portrait of John Dickinson is taken from Ames' ASTRONOMICAL DIARY AND ALMANACK for the year 1772. Almanacs were the best sellers of colonial America. These publications, second in importance only to the Bible, were widely used in all of the colonies. As early as 1639 Stephen Daye may have published AN ALMANAC . . . CALCULATED FOR NEW ENGLAND at Cambridge, Massachusetts. At first almanacs contained only astronomical information and some prophecy, but in later years they contained a wide variety of material. There appeared witticisms, old sayings, fables or brief stories, historical vignettes, poetry, occasionally political opinions and even music. Often there were blank pages that could be used for diaries. Nathaniel Ames' almanacs were begun in Boston in 1725 and continued until 1774. This is a fine example of an almanac with much diversified material. Benjamin Franklin's POOR RICHARD'S ALMANAC (Philadelphia, 1732-1757) is the most famous of colonial almanacs. It was unequalled in its day for its proverbs, wit and wisdom. (Courtesy, American Antiquarian Society)

Dickinson strong voice in revolution

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 12th in a series of articles on the American Revolution for the Bicentennial year prepared by the American Antiquarian Society in cooperation with the American Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation.

By DR. FRANCIS G. WALETT
"THOSE who are TAXED without their own consent, expressed by themselves or their representatives, are SLAVES. WE ARE TAXED without our own consent, expressed by ourselves or our representatives. WE are therefore—SLAVES."

Writing in the Pennsylvania Chronicle in early 1768, John Dickinson used these words in condemning the latest attempt of Parliament to raise money in the American colonies. In his "Letters from a Farmer in Pennsylvania," published first in the newspapers and then in pamphlet form, Dickinson denounced the Townshend Revenue Act in this vigorous logical argument. The British attempt to tax the colonists in the form of import duties, he declared, was just as illegal as the recently defeated Stamp Act.

In 1767, Parliament had enacted a series of measures which were intended to raise a revenue in America, to reorganize the customs service, and generally to provide more imperial control. The Townshend Acts were opposed everywhere in the colonies, but no one stated the position of the colonists at this time more succinctly and more clearly than John Dickinson.

Dickinson, a native of Maryland, who was well educated in England, soon gained the reputation of being one of the most capable lawyers in America. He was serving in the Pennsylvania assembly at the time of the passage of the Townshend Acts, and he was immediately aroused by this new assertion of Parliamentary power over the colonies.

Already having written a pamphlet that declared the Stamp Act unconstitutional, he now composed a series of "Letters" which argued vigorously that Parliament had no authority to impose the Townshend Act on America. Where to have the letters printed posed a problem.

In the local politics of Pennsylvania, John Dickinson was part of a faction that defended the proprietary interests of the Penn family in opposition to a party that wanted a government more directly under the Crown. The maelstrom of politics in the province had led to the founding of the Pennsylvania Chronicle in 1767, a newspaper published by William Goddard, formerly of Providence and New York. It was subsidized by the rather conservative Joseph Galloway and some friends who hoped to do away with the power of the proprietor. The arrangement proved to be an unhappy one; Goddard was a maverick in running the paper and soon displeased his backers. When he balked at dancing to his backers' political tune at times, he found his business in jeopardy.

News of the Townshend Acts gave Goddard and the Chronicle a new lease on life. No one knows how the printer learned of John Dickinson's intention to get into the Townshend dispute, but Goddard scooped Philadelphia papers (and other newspapers, too) by publishing the first of the "Farmer's Letters" on Dec. 2, 1767. Nothing could have angered Goddard's backers more. Joseph Galloway threatened to withdraw support, and ridiculed notions about the threat to American liberty and the rights of man. The stubborn printer fought for editorial independence, however, and published the rest of the "Letters" in twelve successive installments.

Although the "Letters" were published under a pen name (as was then the almost universal custom), it was soon clear that the author was John Dickinson. Galloway forced the Chronicle to carry articles intended to discredit the "Farmer," and this doubtless contributed to Dickinson's defeat in his campaign for the colonial assembly in October 1768.

Just as Dickinson's political career in Pennsylvania was being set back temporarily, his fame elsewhere in America was growing rapidly. The "Letters" appeared in numerous newspapers and in several collected editions. Praise was heaped on the "Farmer" in many places: writers extolled his virtues, town meetings and assemblies voted him their thanks, and Sam Adams paid him the supreme compliment by saying "He is a True Bostonian."

Dickinson's argument was quite explicit as he wrote calmly but firmly, "WE CANNOT BE 'HAPPY', WITHOUT BEING 'FREE'—that we cannot be free, WITHOUT BEING SECURE IN OUR PROPERTY—that we cannot be secure in our property, if, WITHOUT OUR CONSENT, OTHERS MAY, AS BY RIGHT, TAKE IT AWAY." Even Francis Bernard, royal governor of Massachusetts, wrote that Dickinson had phrased "A Bill of Rights in the Opinion of the Americans."

John Dickinson, whose whole career was marked by moderation and reasonableness, was once described by John Adams as "a very modest man, and very ingenious as well as agreeable." He strongly opposed riots and violence but his words of moderation were lost in the wild harangues against British policy in the press, clashes between colonial mobs and customs officials, and conflicts between soldiers and civilians in New York and Boston that followed.

If Dickinson's advice was not followed by the Sons of Liberty, he nevertheless articulated very effectively the colonial argument against the Townshend Acts.

Oliver Evans of Philadelphia, successful inventor of a self-propelled amphibious dredge in 1805, produced an underestimated hint of modern transportation. Evans predicted, "The time will come when people will travel in stages moved by steam engines, from one city to another, almost as fast as birds fly, fifteen or twenty miles an hour." The World Almanac notes.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-609: Hulda G., aged 20, is an exchange student from Germany, now registered at one of our universities.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I read your 'Worry Clinic' every day in the local newspaper. And notice that you emphasize the proper sexual relationships that will lead to permanently happy marriages."

"You also explain that 'Dating Bureaus' are not the same as 'Marriage Bureaus,' for mere dating may be for a convenient sexual affair over the weekend whereas marriage is for a lifetime."

"Dr. Crane, although I have been in America only this year, I notice several differences between college boys over here in contrast to those in Europe."

"Americans seem more fascinated by a girl's bustline than do the males in Europe."

"By contrast, the European men focus more on a girl's hips and what Americans call her 'fanny.'"

"What causes this marked difference in viewpoint?"

FANNY PINCHERS
American waitresses often report, too, that it is men of foreign birth who have a tendency to pinch their "fanny."

And one of the basic psychological explanations is due to the widespread bottle feeding of American infants.

For in foreign countries, babies are usually breast fed. Thus, foreign males are accustomed to seeing a woman's breasts.

During the act of nursing their infants, the mothers also free their breasts from their bra, so the milk-filled breast may hang low and suggest the udder of a Holstein cow.

"Familiarity breeds contempt," runs an old adage that is then very pertinent in this connection.

For the foreign males, especially of the unmarried group, thus are far more accustomed to seeing the naked breasts of women than to viewing their bared "fanny."

By contrast, American males have not been used to the exposed female breast.

Except in the highly touted topless waitress clubs, the American young men still find the exposed female breast a novelty.

True, the skimpy bikini outfits don't cover much of either the breast or the "fanny" of a bathing beauty, but they at least cover a little.

But because the unknown fields of a magical attraction, the European male is thus more "fanny oriented" than is the American.

Another minor factor is the prevalence of motor cars in this country.

For the typical American male attends drive-in movies with his girl friend beside him on the front seat of his compact car.

So her bust is more available to romancing technique.

In Europe and especially in Russia and China, automobiles are far less common.

And in our Bathing Beauty "measurements," the first one listed also stresses the bustline, showing which gets top billing in the eyes of American males!

But mere anatomical "measurements" don't compare with true charm, such as the cheery smile, gay repartee and coquettish behavior of a talented girl.

So send for my 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Use them to pick your mate on the basis of over 1,000 confidential reports of engaged American men and women!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

For Thursday, July 10, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
There's no reason to pick up the entire tab today for a fun activity with friends. Let each pay a fair share.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Be extra-patient with members of your household, even though they may pull a few stunts that will exasperate you. You can handle things.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Don't rehash an old, irritating issue with a person in your charge today. Forgiveness will win you an ally.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
If shopping today, be careful when it comes to novel merchandise. There's a good chance you'll buy something you'll never use.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Avoid the company today of one whose goals are not in harmony with yours. It won't be worth the effort to try and convince him you're right.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
It's to your advantage to play a little hard-to-get today in your dealings. Let them come to you for a change.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
It's not a good day to make requests of a material nature from your friends. It could prove embarrassing when you're turned down.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Unfortunately, you can't base a major decision today on whether you tread upon someone's toes. First, protect your own interests.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
A co-worker today will have a rather sharp tongue. He can be won over easily if you react tactfully, not angrily.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You'll profit more in the long run today if you think in terms of what's best for all concerned, rather than "What's in it for me?"

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
You have a tendency today to jump to conclusions. Your hasty assumptions could create a problem.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
This can be a very productive period if you don't try to build Rome in one day. Mistakes are likely if you rush yourself.

Authentic specialty dishes which have ethnic origin often spell the difference between an outstanding meal and one easy to forget. This fact stands out more in restaurants purporting to serve food identified with a nation or a people, such as Dutch, German, or Creole.

Three of my favorite German restaurants, Luchow's in New York, The Black Forest in Chicago, and Mader's in Milwaukee, are known for the excellence of their liver dumplings and red cabbage dishes. All prepare them in somewhat different fashions.

So choosing favorites from favorites, we'll first look at Mader's Bavarian liver dumplings (Bayerische Leberkloose). Start with 2 slices of calves liver (about 1/4 pound). Trim any membrane and chop finely. Combine liver with 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 slightly beaten egg, 1 tablespoon soft butter or margarine, 2 teaspoons finely minced parsley, 2 teaspoons finely minced onion, and 2 slices of dry white bread which has been softened in hot water and squeezed dry.

Beat mixture well to blend, then add flour gradually to make a medium stiff dough (usually about 1/2 cup flour). Bring 4 cups meat stock (beef, chicken or bouillon) to boil in a large pan with lid. Drop dough by teaspoons into gently boiling stock and cook covered 20 to 25 minutes, depending on size of dumplings. It's best to avoid too thick a mixture in the dough, so drop one dumpling into the hot stock as a trial. If it does not hold together, you must add a little more flour. Recipe makes

Studying to be model at age of 67

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — Mary Davis is going to school to become a professional fashion model. She's 67.

Despite her age, 10 children and 23 grandchildren, she thinks she can hold her own with younger girls.

"I have wanted to model clothes for a long time," she said. "But I never had the chance. I had so many children. All my kids are grown now and no one's home, and I have a chance now."

Mrs. Davis began attending a modeling school in nearby Bettendorf, Iowa, last May. So far she's learned how to walk, stand, hold her hands and put on makeup.

"I don't look my age, I can pass for 35 or younger," she said. "It depends upon the kind of clothes I wear. I never will wear clothes like these old ladies."

"I like to wear street clothes, sports clothes, evening gowns, things like that," she said. "But I don't wear no real short shorts and I wouldn't be wearing no bikini. I have so many grandchildren, I wouldn't want them to see me like that."

Mrs. Davis won't call herself pretty but says, "I regard myself as handsome."

The first battle of the Revolutionary War, the so-called Battle of Bunker Hill on June 17, 1775 during which most of the fighting took place on Breed's Hill, was a great psychological victory for the patriots. An inferior force of American farmers had held off and inflicted serious damage to a superior force of well-trained British regulars. In their three assaults on Breed's Hill, the British suffered 1,064 casualties including 226 killed. The World Almanac recalls.

Fire damage

Extensive front structural damage was reported as the result of a fire late Tuesday night at 90 Crawford Ave.

The Dixon Fire Department, with aid from the Rural Fire Department, was called to the Robert Smith home shortly before midnight after a smoldering chair ignited the porch at the home. Fire spread to the frame of the front window and an upstairs closet before being extinguished.

Earlier in the evening, the Rural and City Fire Departments were called to the Daniel Allen home, 304 W. Chamberlin. Firefighters were called after a child allegedly used a can opener in an attempt to unplug an electrical shaver from a bathroom light fixture.

Hurt as car hits bicycle

A young Dixon bicyclist was hospitalized following a Tuesday evening accident.

Tommy Drake, 12, 1609 N. Jefferson Ave., had stopped on one center strip of Galena Avenue. He was struck by a car driven by Mark A. Beck, 16, 814 Fourth Ave., who was turning left into Parkway Drive-In. Drake was taken to the hospital by Beck where he was treated and released.

No tickets were issued.

Periodic jail term ordered

OREGON—Harry Clapper Jr., 26, Oregon, was placed on one year periodic imprisonment and given three years' probation Tuesday by Circuit Judge John Moore.

Clapper was convicted on a charge of attempted rape in connection with a March 16, 1974 incident involving a 27-year-old Oregon woman.

Rochelle youth is arrested

Fred Reser, 17, Rochelle, was arrested by Lee County Sheriff's deputies Tuesday evening on charges of theft and burglary.

Reser is accused of taking motorcycles from the Compton residences of Frank Furar and Ronnie Kuntz on Saturday.

He is being held in jail pending a court appearance today.

Retired teachers to meet

The Ogle-Lee Unit of the National Retired Teachers Association will meet on Tuesday for a noon luncheon at St. Mary's School on Ill. 64 about two miles west of Oregon. A chicken dinner will be served at a cost of $3.

The program will be a timely one—patriotic and informational. Mrs. Irene Fierheller, Polo, will give patriotic readings. She is well known for her dramatic readings. Irvin Hake, Area 1 director, will report on the important areas of the Retired Teachers' Association.

Reservations may be made through contact chairmen, or Miss Marie Thompson, 214 Madison Ave., Dixon, telephone 284-3716; or to Harold Hoff, 411 Hubbell Drive, Dixon, telephone 288-6248. Reservations must be made by Friday noon.

Car theft is being probed

OREGON—Ogle County Sheriff's Police are continuing their investigation into the reported theft of a car from Polo. The auto, a 1968 Pontiac LeMans, was reported stolen from the Stephanie Bonnell residence Monday night. Bonnell said the keys were left in the car. The car is described as being dark blue in color.

$65,431 grant for YSB

Irv Koch, Lee County Board chairman, said today that Lee County has received $65,431 for operation of the second phase of the Lee County Youth Service Bureau.

The Youth Service Bureau provides a multitude of services, including counseling and referral to community social service resources, to young people who are in danger of becoming involved with the juvenile justice system. Al Hardersen is the Youth Service Bureau director. The 15-month grant was awarded by the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

The Illinois Law Enforcement Commission is the state agency authorized to distribute state and federal funds to local units of government and private agencies for crime control programs. The Illinois Law Enforcement Commission has awarded more than $1 million to the seven counties served by the Northwest Illinois Criminal Justice Commission.

The body was cremated in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Hit-run crash is investigated

OREGON—Ogle County Sheriff's Police are continuing their investigation into a hit-and-run accident Tuesday on German Church Road and Ill. 72.

Robert E. Palmer, 33, Leaf River, told police he was traveling north when a white-colored Chevrolet drove onto German Church Road from the highway and collided with his pickup truck.

Damage to Palmer's 1967 Ford pickup was estimated at $800. The hit-and-run vehicle, believed to be a 1967 Chevrolet, continued south after the accident.

Palmer's two children, complained of bruises as a result of the accident.

Glen Ellyn man faces charge

A summons has been issued to Francis Samborski, Glen Ellyn, to answer charges of defrauding an innkeeper.

Samborski is accused of failure to pay a $237 bill which has been owed to the Nachusa Hotel since May 6.

Lee Co. Association for the Handicapped

The family of David James Schertner would like to thank our many friends for their cards, flowers, memorials and all acts of kindness shown to us during the recent loss of our loved one. A very special thanks to the Polo Emergency Unit, KSB Hospital Emergency Room Staff and Father Molloy. Their labor and prayers sustained us during our darkest hour, also a special thank you to our friends who drove many miles to be with us. May God bless each of you always.

The James Schertner family
The Bill Willett family
Mrs. Helen Schertner
Mrs. Juanita Anderson

On behalf of the Lane Kessel family, we would like to thank every one who comforted the family in our time of sorrow. There are not enough words nor enough ways to thank the people who wrote, called, came to the visitation, came to visit our home, came to the funeral service, provided transportation and gave food. So many beautiful flowers were given in memory of our loved one and in his honor many memorials. The names are so very many, the thoughts of love so very strong and enduring. May God be with you and bless each and every one.

Beer garden hours discussed, in Compton

COMPTON—A group of citizens from Compton appeared Monday night in front of the Village Board to discuss the approval of late closing hours for the beer garden during the Centennial. Board members assured the group they were expecting no trouble in allowing the beer garden to remain open until 2 or 3 a.m. The board also explained the Law and Order Committee had met with members of the Lee County Sheriff's Department to discuss possible problems.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Delhot also asked the board to check on problems with all-night parties in the village park.

The owner of the Lee County Disposal service reported to the board garbage pick-up would be on Wednesdays instead of Tuesdays. The board also discussed drawing a new contract for garbage service.

Bills totalling $3,200 were approved for payment.

In final action, the board announced it was still looking for a new water meter reader to fill a vacancy created by Merritt Merriman, and the village would be fogged for mosquitos prior to the Centennial festivities.

Compton milking event Saturday

COMPTON—The Mayor's Milking Contest, here, will take place at 6:30 p.m. Saturday. Mayors from the surrounding towns have been contacted to participate in the event. Compton Mayor Bud Jacobs will compete against all challengers for the title he won last year as the champion goat milker at Lee's centennial. The goats will be furnished by Lampson's Dairy Goat farm at Ottawa and the event will be held at the grade school grounds.

Line-up time is at 1 p.m. Saturday for the "Kiddie Parade" that will assemble at the village hall. All youngsters eighth grade and under will be eligible for cash prizes awarded in six categories: decorated bicycles, individuals, horses, pets, novelty, and groups. For each category there will be first, second and third prize. The parade route is from the hall to Chestnut and over to Third Street, down the main drag to the elevator and return to the hall. This parade is under the chairmanship of Marge Pasley.

Seek Miss Flame contestants in Amboy

AMBOY—The annual Miss Flame contest sponsored by the Amboy Volunteer Firemen has been set for Aug. 2 and deadline for entries to be received is July 20.

James Powers, chairman of the contest, announces the following rules: Each contestant must be at least 16 years old and not reach her 19th birthday by the date of the Miss Blackhawk contest in October, and not have won a previous Miss Flame contest.

Each girl must be sponsored by an organization which will furnish a car for her to ride in the parade.

Contestants will wear street attire and give a two-minute presentation on some aspect of fire prevention. They will also be judged on poise, beauty and appearance.

Each girl must furnish a black and white photograph with her entry blank to be used in publicity.

Fined $100

John Robert Lopez, 29, Sterling, plead guilty to a charge of forgery Tuesday in circuit court. He was fined $100 and ordered to make restitution of $160 and placed under one year probation. Lopez was charged with forging Freda Star Lopez's state retirement check on December 17, 1974.

5 die in fiery crash

Four persons were burned beyond recognition in Chicago when their auto and a semi-trailer truck were involved in a collision on the Dan Ryan Expressway at South 17th Street. The auto became wedged between the truck and a guard rail. A portion of the auto and the front of the truck cab hang from the high overpass. The truck driver, Harold Conklin, 59, of Rockford, was taken to the Cook County Hospital burn unit by helicopter, where he later died. (AP Wirephoto)

Zoning changes at Polo are approved

POLO—Aldermen voted Monday to accept the recommendation of the Zoning Board of Appeals to allow the operation of beauty shops in the homes of Mary Ann Jackson at 603 E. Oregon St., and Mrs. Cecil Stauffer, S. Congress St.

An ordinance appropriating $424,515 for corporate purposes of the city of Polo for the fiscal year commencing on May 1 to April 30, 1976 was approved. This is an increase of $102,950 over the previous year.

Charles Knie, owner of Knie Appliances, Polo, appeared before the council and told of being harassed by the Police Department over a second-hand refrigerator being temporarily stored in his store driveway.

Polo policemen issued a ticket because of an alleged mechanical lock on the item, which is against state regulation.

He said that the refrigerator was facing the wall of the store and he showed the officer that it was not a mechanical lock. City Attorney Craig McQuire was authorized to handle the situation.

Practice by band discussed

STEWART—Several townspeople attended Tuesday's Village Board meeting to discuss a rock group practicing in a garage at the Pascual Salazar Sr. residence.

Frank Hewitt, Lois Richardson and Mrs. Pascual Salazar spoke on behalf of the rock group. Hewitt got board approval giving permission for the group to practice between the hours of 4 and 8 p.m. providing the amplifiers are turned to a lower position.

Members also directed that any additional complaints concerning the rock group be brought to their attention.

Mrs. Florence Cook discussed future plans for the old Burlington-Northern Railroad depot. She asked the depot be declared a landmark claiming it is the only depot in the United States that has been televised nationally, been in a movie and at the World's Fair.

She asked for permission to have the depot moved to an adjacent park. Board member Phil Carlson got approval on his motion to move the depot and asked that a planning meeting be held. A proposal was expected to be presented prior to the planning meeting.

In other action discussion was held concerning village trees damaged in recent storms and whose responsibility the clean-up job is when the village trees fall upon property owners' land.

Permission was granted to Randy Aldridge to sell gun parts and repair guns on his property.

Mrs. Robert Skelt, owner of Steward Sportsman Inn received her liquor license for the months of July, August and September.

A letter from the Environmental Protection Agency was read suggesting chlorination be added to the village water supply. A motion by Robert Arne, trustee, was approved to seek bids on the chlorination project.

Lee County Zoning Officer Francis Bangston was present to instruct the board in filling out necessary forms for application for flood plan insurance that was adopted by the Lee County Board.

Bids for construction of a new Town Hall building and remodeling of the present structure were tabled.

Oregon band concert Friday

OREGON—The Oregon Municipal Band will hold a concert Friday night at 7:30 p.m. on the Ogle County Court House lawn.

Gary Boyd, director of the band, will conduct the band in selections which will include: "Rise and Shine Concert March," Donald Moore; "Blessed Are They," Brahms, arr. by Buehlman; "Bonaparte's Retreat," Peewee King, arr. by Coffield; "Second Suite in F for Military Band," Gustav Holst; "Here's That Rainy Day," Johnny Burke and James Van Heusen; "Sugar Blues," Fletcher and Williams, arr. Enrolling children in Rochelle ROCHELLE—Applications are now being taken for children wishing to enroll in the Rochelle Enrichment Center.

Recruiting of children will be done basically by the outreach workers of the Tri-County Opportunities Council. Employees of the organization will assist parents in filling out eligibility forms for their children.

Requirements of a child for attending the center are: both parents must be working, or attending school; or in the case of having only a single parent, if that parent is working.

Fee per child is determined by income of one or both parents. Children eligible for the program must be between the ages of 2 to 5 years of age. Further information may be obtained from Joan McNulty at 562-5920.

Rochelle, Tollway officials discuss drainage problem

ROCHELLE—Two tollway officials, along with a consulting engineer for the tollway, met Tuesday with Rochelle City officials and members of the Kyte River Drainage District No. 2 to discuss water run-off problems from the tollway.

Tollway officials Jim Hawkins and Ed Marzulek along with consulting engineer Mike Andrews, a representative of Knoerle, Bender and Stone, of Chicago, explained the run-off water should be to the east and north of the city into the Kyte River.

City officials expressed their concern of the excess water, especially from heavy rains, causing flood problems in the city. Rochelle Mayor Bill Cipolla told the group it would be better to have the water drain off to the west and at the southerly edge of Rochelle. With the drain run-off to the south, excess water would by-pass the city. Also with a southerly drainage area, four farms in the Rochelle area would have lesser problems with water from the tollway.

Hawkins said a 15-foot rise at the Steward Road made it difficult to use a southerly drainage plan.

No agreement for the drainage area was made. Members of District No. 2 for Kyte River Drainage present at the meeting were Jack Turkington, Ralph Quest and Bill Cawley.

A meeting scheduled between Rochelle city officials and Kyte River Drainage District No. 2 was canceled.

With Palmer versus Ryan No pitchers duel after all

By HERSCHEL NISSEN
AP Sports Writer

It had all the earmarks of a great pitching duel ... Jim Palmer against Nolan Ryan, both named to the American League All-Star team this week.

It was great duel, all right, but the pitchers didn't dominate it. Palmer wasn't involved in the decision although he came within one out of becoming the first 14-game winner in the majors. And Ryan suffered his fifth consecutive defeat as the Baltimore Orioles downed the California Angels 8-5 in 10 innings Tuesday night.

Palmer, although he allowed only six hits, was charged with all five California runs in 8 2/3 innings and blew a 5-3 lead with two out in the ninth. Ryan, who hasn't won since June 6, yielded 10 hits, six walks and eight runs — three of them unearned — in nine innings-plus.

The Orioles won the game on

Mark Belanger's two-run single in the 10th following a walk and a two-base throwing error by first baseman John Doherty.

Red Sox 6, Twins 5

Fred Lynn's tie-breaking pinch single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning drove in the winning run. Jim Rice opened the ninth by beating out an infield hit and was sacrificed to second. After an intentional walk to Carlton Fisk, rookie reliever Tom Johnson, making his first appearance of the season, also walked Rick Burleson to load the bases. Lynn, who hasn't started the last few games because of a bruised hand, grounded a game-winning single into right field.

Yankees 4, Rangers 0

Catfish Hunter pitched a seven-hitter for his 12th victory and fifth shutout and Ron Blomberg hit a two-run homer in the first inning. Blomberg's homer off Steve Hargan was his fourth of the year and his first since he injured a shoulder April 26 while hitting a home run against Milwaukee.

Royals 9, Brewers 1

Harmon Killebrew's two-run double highlighted a five-run first inning against Bill Travers and John Mayberry added a three-run homer off Pete Broberg in the fourth. Meanwhile, Dennis Leonard scattered nine hits and blanked the Brewers until George Scott hit his 16th home run in the seventh.

A's 15, Indians 5

Gene Tenace drove in four runs with a homer and single, Billy Williams hit a two-run homer and Claudell Washington tripled twice, drove in two runs and scored twice. Ken Holtzman earned his fourth consecutive triumph with help from Jim Todd in the seventh.

Tigers 3, White Sox 0

Joe Coleman and John Hiller teamed up on a five-hitter and Ron LeFlore and Leon Roberts homered as the Tigers extended their winning streak to seven games.

Padres 8, Cubs 6

Fred Kendall's two-run single in the 15th inning lifted San Diego over Chicago. With one out in the 15th, Don Hahn doubled off Tom Detmore, 2-2, and Dave Winfield was walked intentionally. The runners moved up on a grounder by Hector Torres before Kendall singled to left.

Joe McIntosh, 7-7, San Diego's sixth pitcher in the game, got the victory that snapped the Padres' three game losing streak and handed the Cubs their fourth straight loss.

Mets 4, Braves 3

Dave Kingman's 15th home run of the season, a three-run blast in the sixth inning, powered New York over Atlanta. Wayne Garrett opened the game with his third homer of the year, giving the Mets 13 homers in their last eight games.

Reds 2, Phillies 1

Gary Nolan notched his first victory in almost a month with relief help from Rawly Eastwick as red-hot Cincinnati edged Philadelphia. Nolan, 8-5, scattered six hits in 6 2/3 innings before departing in the seventh when the Phillies scored their run.

Astros 5, Expos 1

Dave Roberts fired a four-hitter and drove across two runs with two singles to lead Houston over Montreal.

Giants 6, Cardinals 4

Bobby Murcer belted a two-run homer and Von Joshua ripped two hits and scored two runs, helping San Francisco beat St. Louis despite Ron Fairly's grand slam homer. The Giants, scoring early at the expense of Cardinal right-hander Bob Gibson, 2-8, built a 5-0 lead before Fairly crashed the seventh bases-loaded homer of his career in the sixth inning.

Dukes fall to Sterling

By JIM FOX
Telegraph Sports Writer

STERLING—Sterling scored eight runs in its last three innings in a come-from-behind 8-5 Sauk Valley Conference victory over the Dixon Dukes, here, Tuesday night. Sterling is unbeaten after six games in conference action, while Dixon falls to a 5-4 conference record.

Dixon had a steady but uncomfortable 4-0 lead after two frames, as the Dukes jumped on Steve Marschang (4-2) for a pair of runs in each of the first two innings.

Dan Kopacz opened the game for the visitors, reaching on a base on balls. Dave Zinnen followed with a sacrifice bunt and reached first safely when Marschang threw late to second, attempting to cut down Kopacz.

Mike Morrissey forced Zinnen at second before Vince Melendrez aided his own cause with a run-scoring single to center. Dixon's second run crossed the plate when Warrior centerfielder Wes Williams booted Melendrez's hit and allowed Morrissey to score from first.

John Kemp started the two-run second inning with a single to left and promptly stole second. After Matt Rhodes reached on an infield error, Stan Hack laid down a beautiful sacrifice bunt. All runners were safe and there were no outs.

Kopacz then delivered a key two-run base hit to right center, chasing Kemp and Rhodes home and giving Dixon and Melendrez a 4-0 advantage.

Melendrez looked sharp for three innings as the leftie hurled smart baseball. Melendrez had the Sterling batters fooled, displaying a wicked curve and a good change-up.

He set the Warriors up with a few fast balls and then dropped a slow third strike by the bewildered batters.

But in the home team's half of the fourth Melendrez lost sight of the strike zone. Rod Anderson collected a one-out double to center and then the base on balls came.

Marschang walked on four pitches. A ground out put runners on second and third with two outs. Dave Stockwell then walked to load the bases. Mike Davis and pinch-hitter Gary Skrogstad also walked, and each base on balls forced a run across.

Dixon saw its once four-run lead vanish as Williams singled to right, chasing the tying runs home. All four runs scored after two outs.

Warrior shortstop Mark Holdorf scored the go-ahead run in the fifth on a three-base throwing error by Dukes catcher Doug Devine. Holdorf scored from first when Stockwell bunted in front of the plate and was hit in the helmet by Devine on the throw to first. The ball ended up down the right field line and Holdorf raced across with the lead run.

Dixon tied it in the sixth, and could have taken the lead, as the Dukes loaded the bases but could manage only one run. Rhodes singled, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored the tying tally on a deep sacrifice fly off the bat of Gregg Mullery. Dixon had the bags full, with only one out, but settled for the lone tying score.

Williams, Marshang and LeRoy Compton picked up RBI in a three-run sixth that put it away for Sterling. The Warriors are 6-0 in conference action and maintain their first place hold. Dixon is in fourth with its 5-4 mark.

The Dukes host Rochelle in a conference doubleheader at Reynolds Field Thursday evening in their next scheduled games. The first contest gets underway at 6 p.m.

Archers lose 1-0

Craig Cameron singled, stole second, went to third on a fly ball and scored on a Scott Noe single for the only run, as the Belvidere Bucks blanked the Dixon Archers 1-0 at Reynolds Field Tuesday night in semi-pro baseball action.

Kurt Peterson was saddled with the loss, giving up six hits. Winning hurler Dave Whitfield scattered four Archers hits, including a Rick Shroyer triple. Excellent fielding by both teams highlighted the contest.

The Archers will host Belvidere on Friday at 8 p.m. in their next contest, before traveling for a doubleheader against Blackhawk on Saturday.

Thompson goes ABA

NEW YORK (AP) — All-American David Thompson has decided to sign with Denver of the American Basketball Association rather than Atlanta, dealing the Hawks and the National Basketball Association a second major setback in less than a month.

Atlanta, which held the NBA rights to Thompson, also lost Marvin "The Human Eraser" Webster to the Nuggets, who signed him for an estimated $1.2 million to $1.5 million.

The deal for Thompson is expected to cost Denver as much as $3 million spread over six years and would make Thompson the highest paid rookie in the history of pro sports.

In Denver, the Rocky Mountain News reported in its late editions that it had learned the former North Carolina State star signed a Denver contract Tuesday in New York.

The story by News columnist Woodrow Paige Jr. said the signing will be announced on Monday, after sale of the Nuggets franchise to a Colorado group is completed.

Confirmation of Thompson's decision came Tuesday from Atlanta Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons.

"Atlanta has been informed by Larry Fleisher, Thompson's agent, that Thompson has made a decision to play in the ABA with Denver," Fitzsimmons told The Associated Press.

Sport Notes

Sublette tournament

A total of 16 teams is needed. The first four finishers will each receive a trophy. First place will pay $200, second $100 and third $75.

Cowley is sixth

Duane Cowley took sixth place with a time of 46:22 in the eight mile Third Annual Lincoln Douglas cross-country race at Metamora, recently. Reo Remor grabbed first with a 41:47 clocking. Chip Cordell of Dixon was 12th in 48:16 and Kurt Graff 17th in 49:10 out of 76 harriers competing.

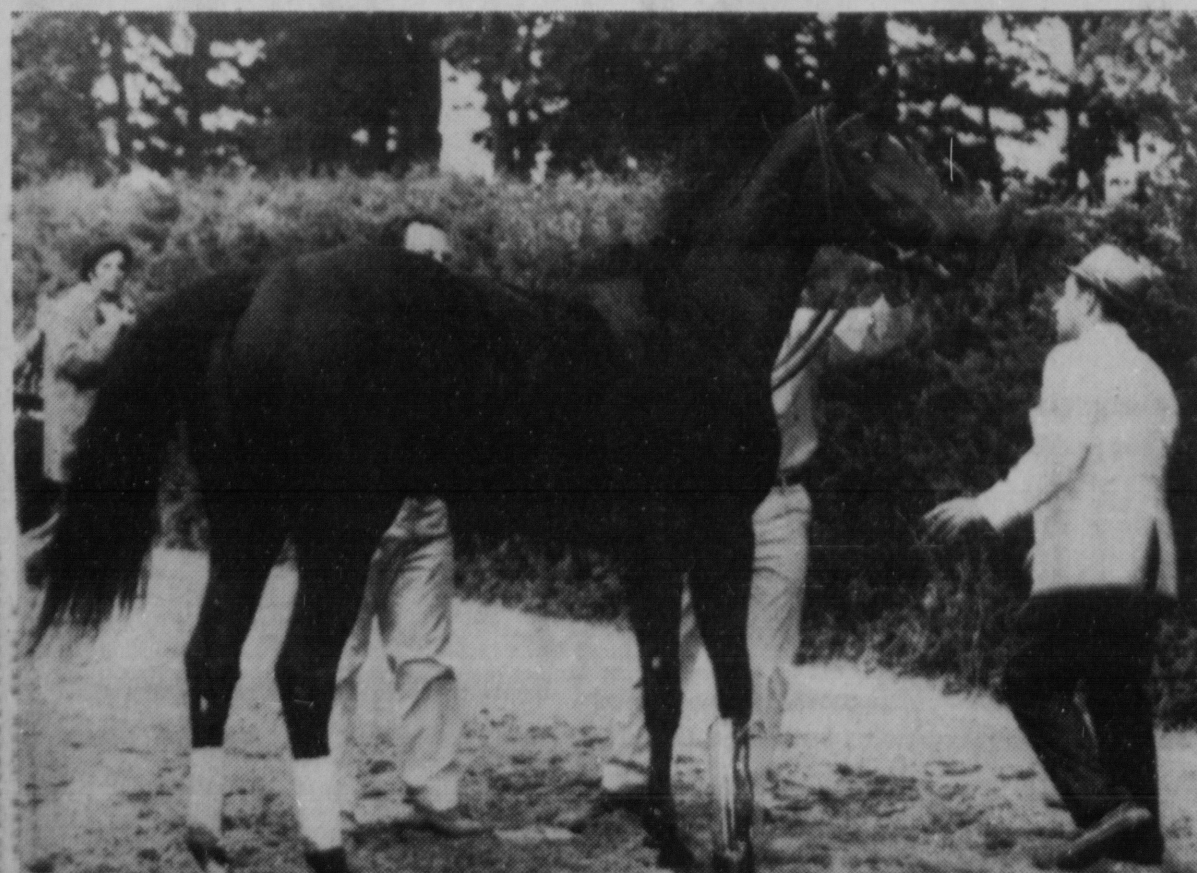

Rock Falls tournament

The Coloma Township Park District will sponsor its Second Annual Jack McCreary Men's 12" Slo-Pitch Softball Tournament on July 19-20. The tournament will be a 24-team double elimination affair on the diamonds in Centennial Park.

Entry fee is $65 per team. First place is worth $400, second $300, third $200 and fourth $100. The first six teams will receive trophies. Entry deadline is July 17.

Oregon grabs first

Oregon's State Farm Insurance team won first place in the annual Mt. Morris Fourth of July Little League Baseball Tournament last week. In the championship game Saturday evening, the Oregon entry defeated the Mt. Morris Texas Twins 17-5. The third place game went to the Mt. Morris Double M's, who downed the Forrester Lions 5-3.

Too much to dream

By MIKE CUNIFF

I had too much to dream last night.
Too much to dream;
I'm not ready to face the light,
I had too much to dream . . . last night.

The Electric Prunes

A roundup of game scores and results follows:
Grandmother's Bumpers 28, Geronimo's Revengers 16
Winning pitcher Oscar Valuti scattered 14 hits to notch his fourth win of the season. Valuti was backed by three Joe Scarpolo hits, two singles by Luigi Empati, four Guiseppe Barcelona extra-base hits and a home run by Antonio Ceruzzi. Emile Lonsponsa added a foul ball which broke out a light while Alexis Jonconi shattered a car's front windshield with a foul liner.

The Unstables 42, Endurable & Bearables 8

Jonnie Dews slugged seven home runs, had four triples, six doubles and two singles to pace the winners. Dews went 19-for-20 with his only out coming when he stepped on home plate while batting. Rathmore Jones helped out by going 17-for-19 with 16 bunt singles and a broken-bat double. The losers were aided by the hitting of Slugging Joe Barnes who belted eight solo homers. The Endurable and Bearables pitching staff, just recently sent down en masse by the Chicago Cubs, gave up 41 earned runs.

Ed's Big Turkeys 2, Rick's Scrubs 1

The winners pushed across the decisive runs on a two-run stand-up triple by Ed Famous with two out in the seventh inning. Famous was then retired when he ran back to the dugout to receive congratulations from his teammates. Left-handed hurler Dick Strum lost his 22nd game of the season despite allowing only two hits. A total of 18 Scrubs errors were wasted opportunities for the Big Turkeys.

Beatnik Bandits 14, The Crapshooters 7

Sevens were the lucky number as the Bandits scored seven times on seven hits in the first and broke a 7-7 tie with seven tallies on seven hits and seven Crapshooter errors in the seventh. Lucky Pierre was the winning pitcher as he gave up seven hits, walked seven and struck out seven in seven innings of work. The Crapshooters were handicapped as only seven players showed up.

Wizards of Oz 19, Buzzbombers 16

A. J. (Cowardly) Lion singled in Billy Scarecrow and Bobby Tinman followed with a two-run homer as the Wizards upped their season record to 7-0 in the Kansas League. The Buzzbombers protested the victory, claiming the Wizards pitcher (Dorothy) was an imported player and the spikes she wore were not regulation. A strong wind from the West held up many fly balls and made play difficult.

The Hazel Brown Cows 77, Underrateds 3

Stealing 124 bases in as many attempts, the Brown Cows stomped upon the Underrateds (1-12). The winners took over first place in the Pasturization League and kept alive hopes for another bid to the Milk Bowl in the process. Hazel Happy from Twin Creeks picked up the victory. A guy named Zilch homered for the losers.

Strawberry Finn 4, Ramzola Bears 3

The winners scored one run in the first, added one run in the second, another run in the fourth and the decisive run in the seventh. Ramzola got one in the second, one in the third and one in the sixth to knot the game at 3-3. Bucky Thatcher, Strawberry Finn shortstop, made several dazzling defensive plays and went three-for-three.

Footstomper 14, Mudslingers 10

Good heads-up base running by the 'Stompers and a porous 'Slingers defense accounted for the victory. The winners got a double play from Blinker to Nevers to Pants in the fifth inning. Arrowsmith Glockensmead earned the win with Dilbert Maunders being tagged with the loss.

Mets, Jets, Sets, Nets & Wets 28, Aces 6

Thom Cleaver carved up the Aces for the win for MJSN&W. Leon Bones cracked two doubles while Muffy Meier had a triple for the victors. David Queenwoman tacked on a solo home run. The Aces got two hits by LaDeuce Clubs.

Impossible Dream 7, Hereditary Jeans 5

The winners climaxed a come-from-behind struggle and achieved their impossible dream in a real barn-burner. ID's Clinton Westwood was tough in the clutch, sneering as he popped the horsehide past the Jeans' batters like it was an aspirin tablet. It was a tough, heart-breaking loss for the losers, who lost their fourth game in a row (and in succession) and now face a losing season.

Spiral Staircase 18, Peppermint Rainbow 11

Tom Beastly, Maurie Redmond, Pete Morelack, Jackie Papers, Englebert Bangwaller, Snakey Thomas, Eric Upends, Snooky Butterfield, Cassidy Butch, Michael Fox and Kid Sundance all got a single each for the Spiral Staircase. R. J. Greaves added a double and triple, Willie Billiams a home run, Rick Croaks a triple, Buster Mathews a double and Elmer Sidewageon a homer for the winners. The Peppermint Rainbow collected with somebody or other getting five.

Sat. 8-12, Closed Sun.

We found a bed long enough for Too Tall Jones.

Introducing Datsun's 7 ft. Li'l Hustler Stretch.

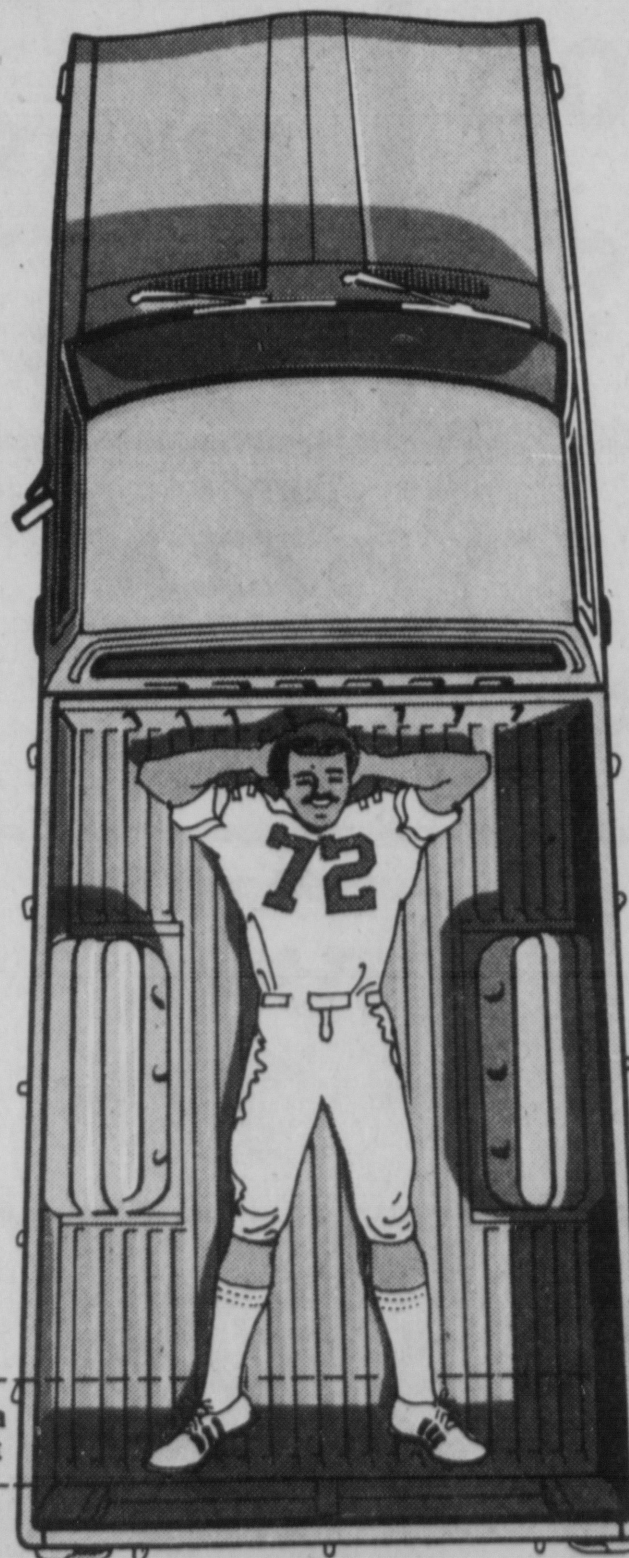

Now you have a choice of two Datsun Pickups: one with the standard 6 ft. bed, and this new Li'l Hustler Stretch with the extra long 7 ft. bed. Gives you more room for business, sport and camping.

Relaxing on the 7 ft. bed is Too Tall Jones, 6'9" defensive end of the Dallas Cowboys. There's plenty of room, even for him.

You get lots more in the Li'l Hustler Stretch:

- Larger, 2000cc OHC engine.
- Great gas mileage. ■ 4-speed stick shift, or optional 3-speed automatic.
- Torsion bar front suspension.
- Rugged two-stage rear truck-type suspension. ■ A long list of other no-cost extras.

Choose the 6 ft. or 7 ft. bed. They're both Datsun Li'l Hustlers. America's #1 Selling Small Pickup.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, July 9, the 190th day of 1975. There are 175 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1816, Argentina declared independence from Spain.
On this date —
In 1776, General George Washington summoned his troops in New York and had the Declaration of Independence read to them.
In 1850, President Zachary Taylor died at the White House after serving only one year and four months of his term.
In 1940, during World War II, the Duke of Windsor was appointed governor of the Bahamas.
In 1947, the engagement of Britain's Princess Elizabeth and Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten was announced.
In 1960, the Soviets threatened the United States with missiles if any attempt were made to oust the Castro government in Cuba.
In 1967, the U.S. assumed an active role in the Congo by sending three military transports to give President Mobutu logistic support in his fight against rebels.
Ten years ago: Democratic Senator Robert Kennedy urged that the U.S. emphasize political rather than military solutions for recurring revolutions in the emerging nations.
Five years ago: The federal government filed a statewide school desegregation suit against Mississippi.
One year ago: Former U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren died in Washington at age 83.
Today's birthday: King Hassan of Morocco is 46 years old.
